Junior Garr + Friends present a collection of Negro spirituals and songs that have heralded the experience of black people. This project is a response to our current need to contend for justice.

WORSHIP IN UNITY WITH VOX COLLECTIVE

Noel Robison and the Kingdom Worship Movement band host TBN UK's new worship series, Vox Collective. Noel tells us more about the programme and its focus on diversity, creativity, and unity in the UK worship scene today.

Where did the title 'Vox Collective' come from?

It almost explains itself in that we are trying to capture the voices of our generation, not just through a song, but through their life testimonies that help to create the sound and the song.

There are around 30 guests appearing on the show. How did you bring them all together?

One of the components of true unity and revival is relationships. They are forged, and over many years you become aware of the many voices that are bringing change to their world.

Why is worship music important?

We define worship as humanity's response to the revelation of who Jesus is. The vehicle of music and worship is one of the keys that God has given us to enter His presence. Through music, we encourage the participant to encounter and experience the presence of God. Every person has a worship chromosome – something that is connected to their Creator – that inner cry that can only be satisfied in the presence of God.

What is your hope for the series?

We hope that Vox Collective will be a catalyst that ushers in a new expression connected to a new revelation of who Jesus is for our generation. Our desire is that viewers will encounter the Jesus the music speaks about, and as they engage, their faith will be lifted so they face the issues of their world knowing that His presence is with them.

Vox Collective airs on Thu, 15 Oct, at 8pm, repeated Sat at 5:30pm and Sun at 10pm

NEW!

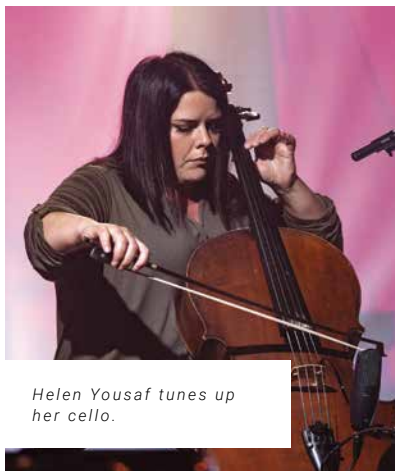

Take a break with Taylor and the TBN UK team as she chats with exciting and inspirational guests on our new podcast! We've got advice, information, and plenty of laughs on a whole range of relevant topics, as we navigate today's world as Christians.

Available on Spotify, Apple Podcasts, and other leading platforms.

Behind The Scenes

We've got a sneak peek of some of the behind-the-scenes antics on the set of Vox Collective, as Noel Robinson welcomes a host of diverse guests to explore worship and music together.

Find out more about the show on page 3, and tune in for great music and interviews.

Helen Yousaf tunes up her cello.

Noel interviews some great artists on the set of Vox Collective. His conversation with Martin Smith must have been funny!

Lucy Grimble gives her best distanced hello!

Donna Akodu demonstrates prophetic worship as she seeks God and sings a new song on the spot.

Don't let fear keep you from God's best!

It is one of the most common emotions faced by every person who has ever lived. But as God's child you can rise above fear. In her latest book, Do It Afraid, bestselling author and teacher Joyce Meyer shows you how to stand up to the fears that try to hold you back, and embrace Holy-Spirit empowered courage and faith in the face of every obstacle.
